

Can you find ...

an ichthyosaur?

a crocodile?

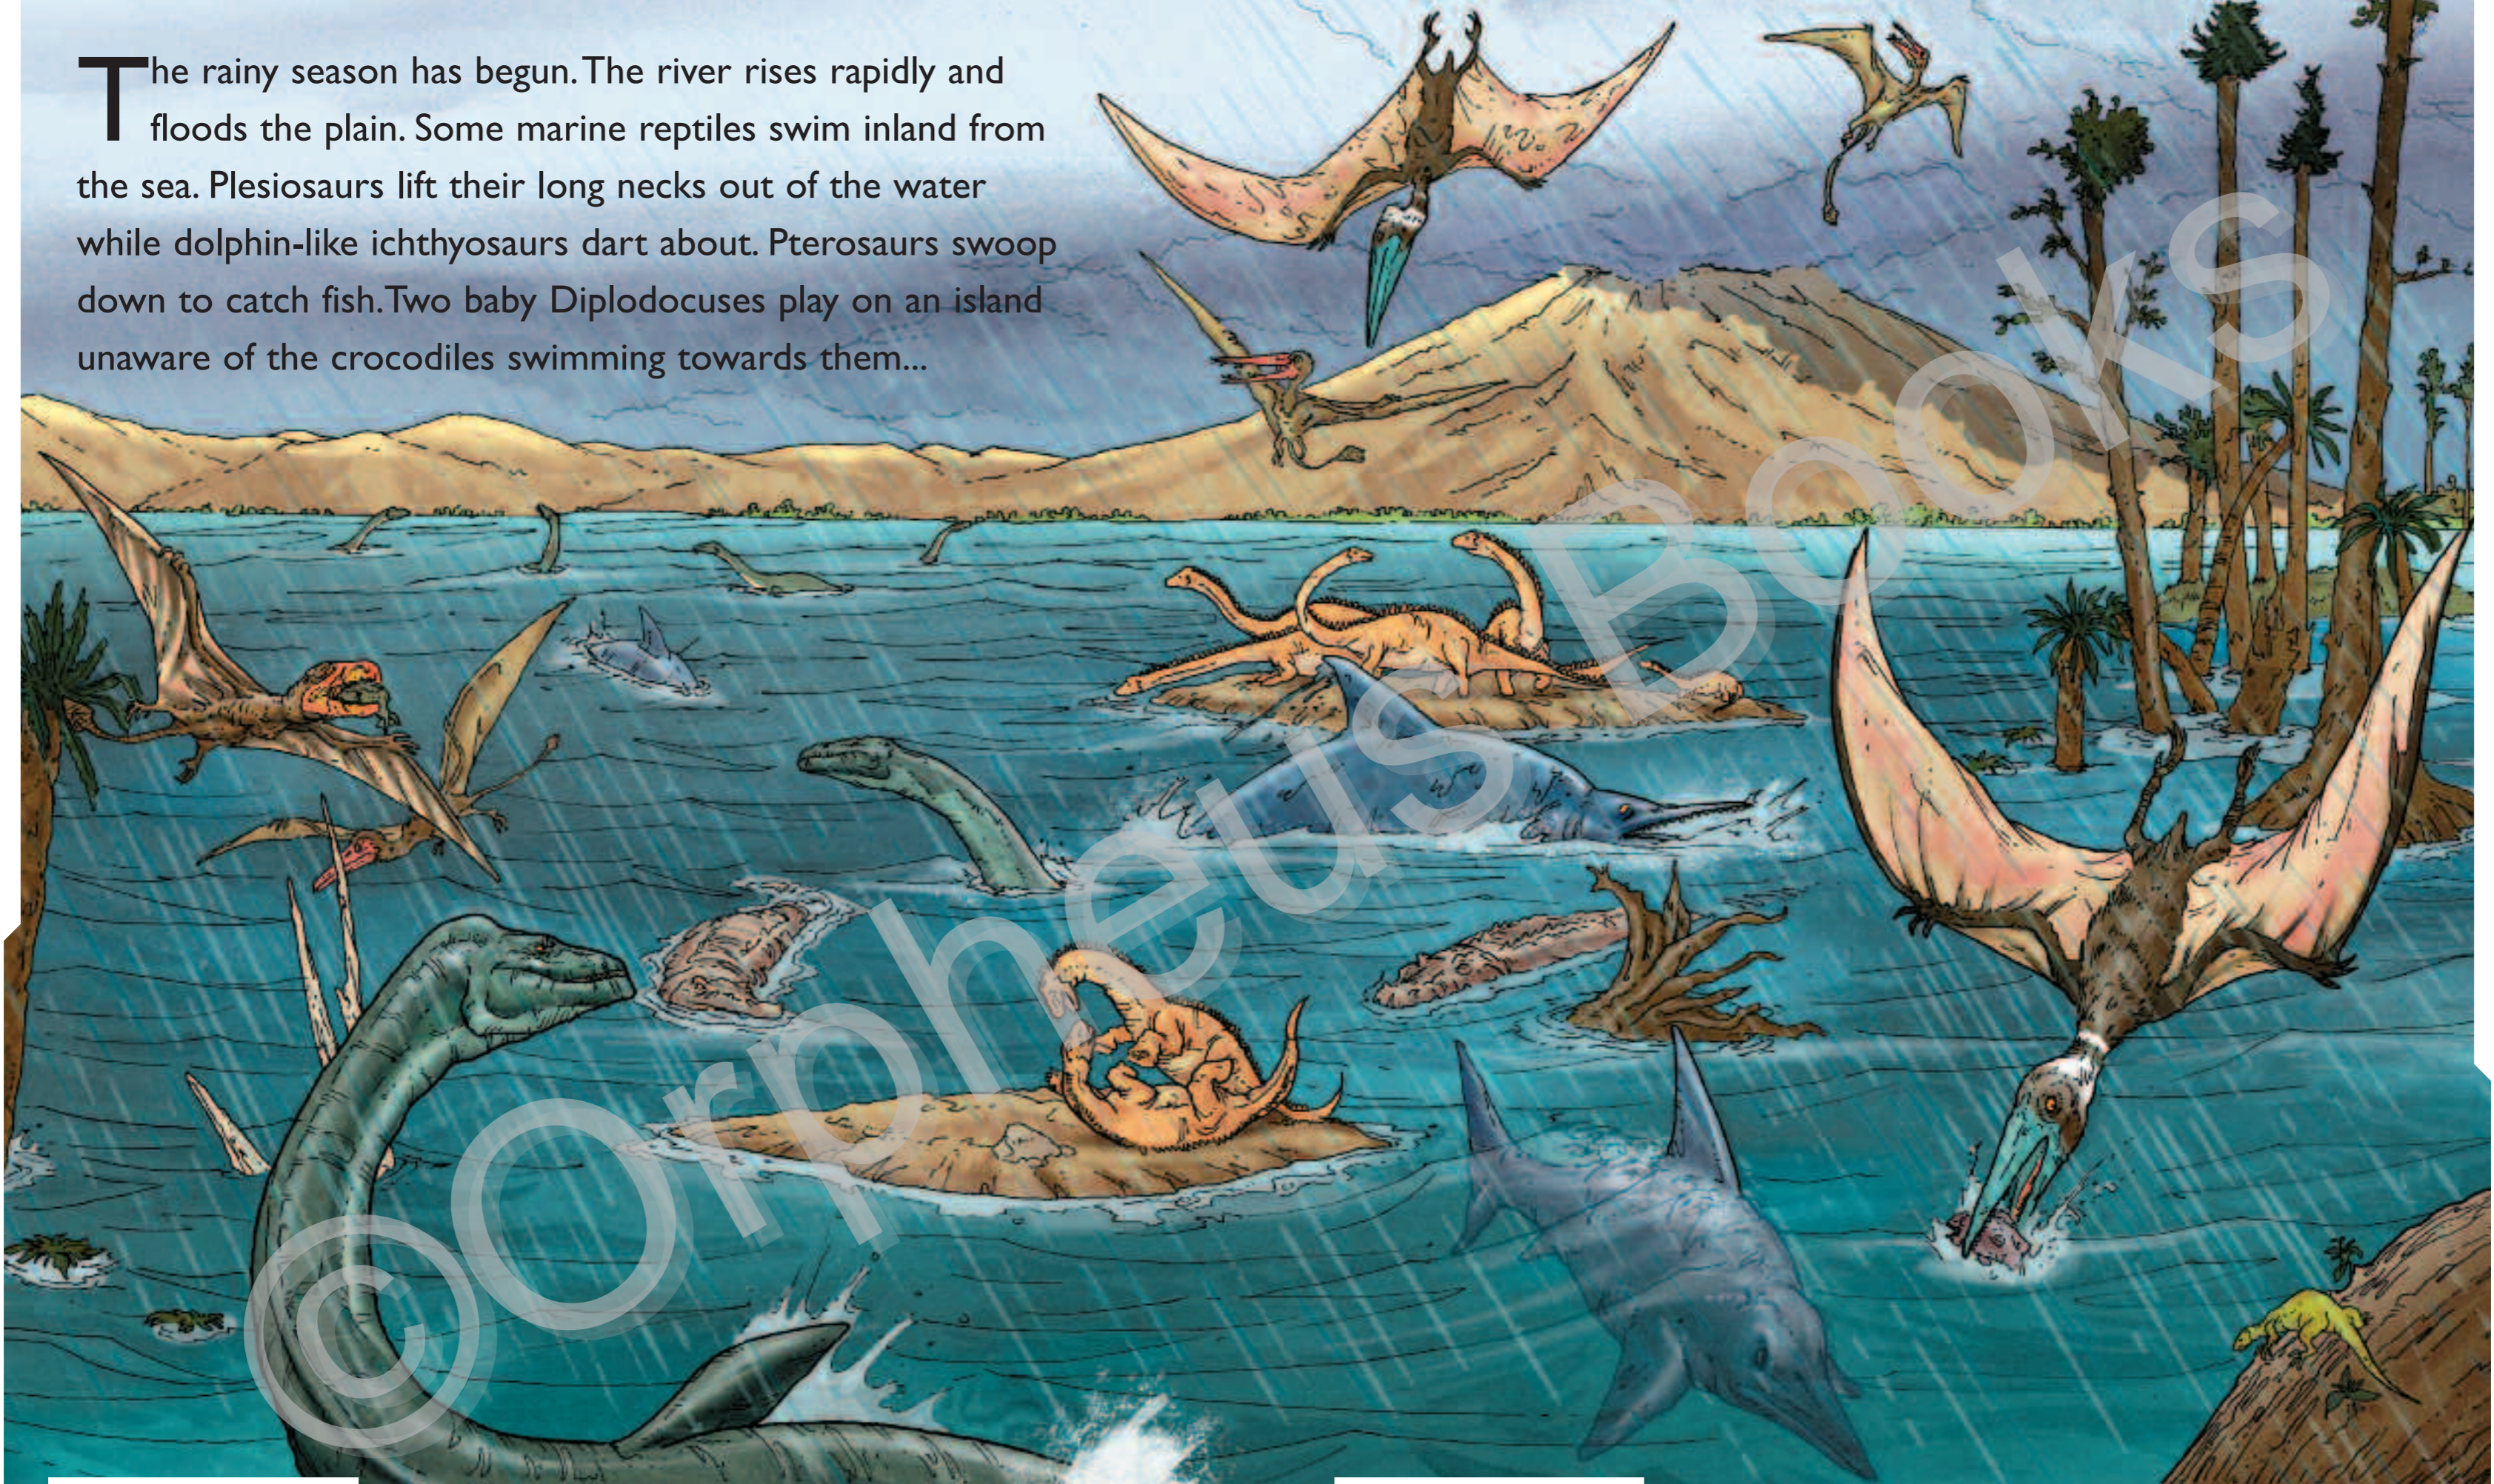

a fish?

a plesiosaur?

The rainy season has begun. The river rises rapidly and floods the plain. Some marine reptiles swim inland from the sea. Plesiosaurs lift their long necks out of the water while dolphin-like ichthyosaurs dart about. Pterosaurs swoop down to catch fish. Two baby Diplodocuses play on an island unaware of the crocodiles swimming towards them...

Floods

Can you find ...

Dryosaurus?

Camarasaurus?

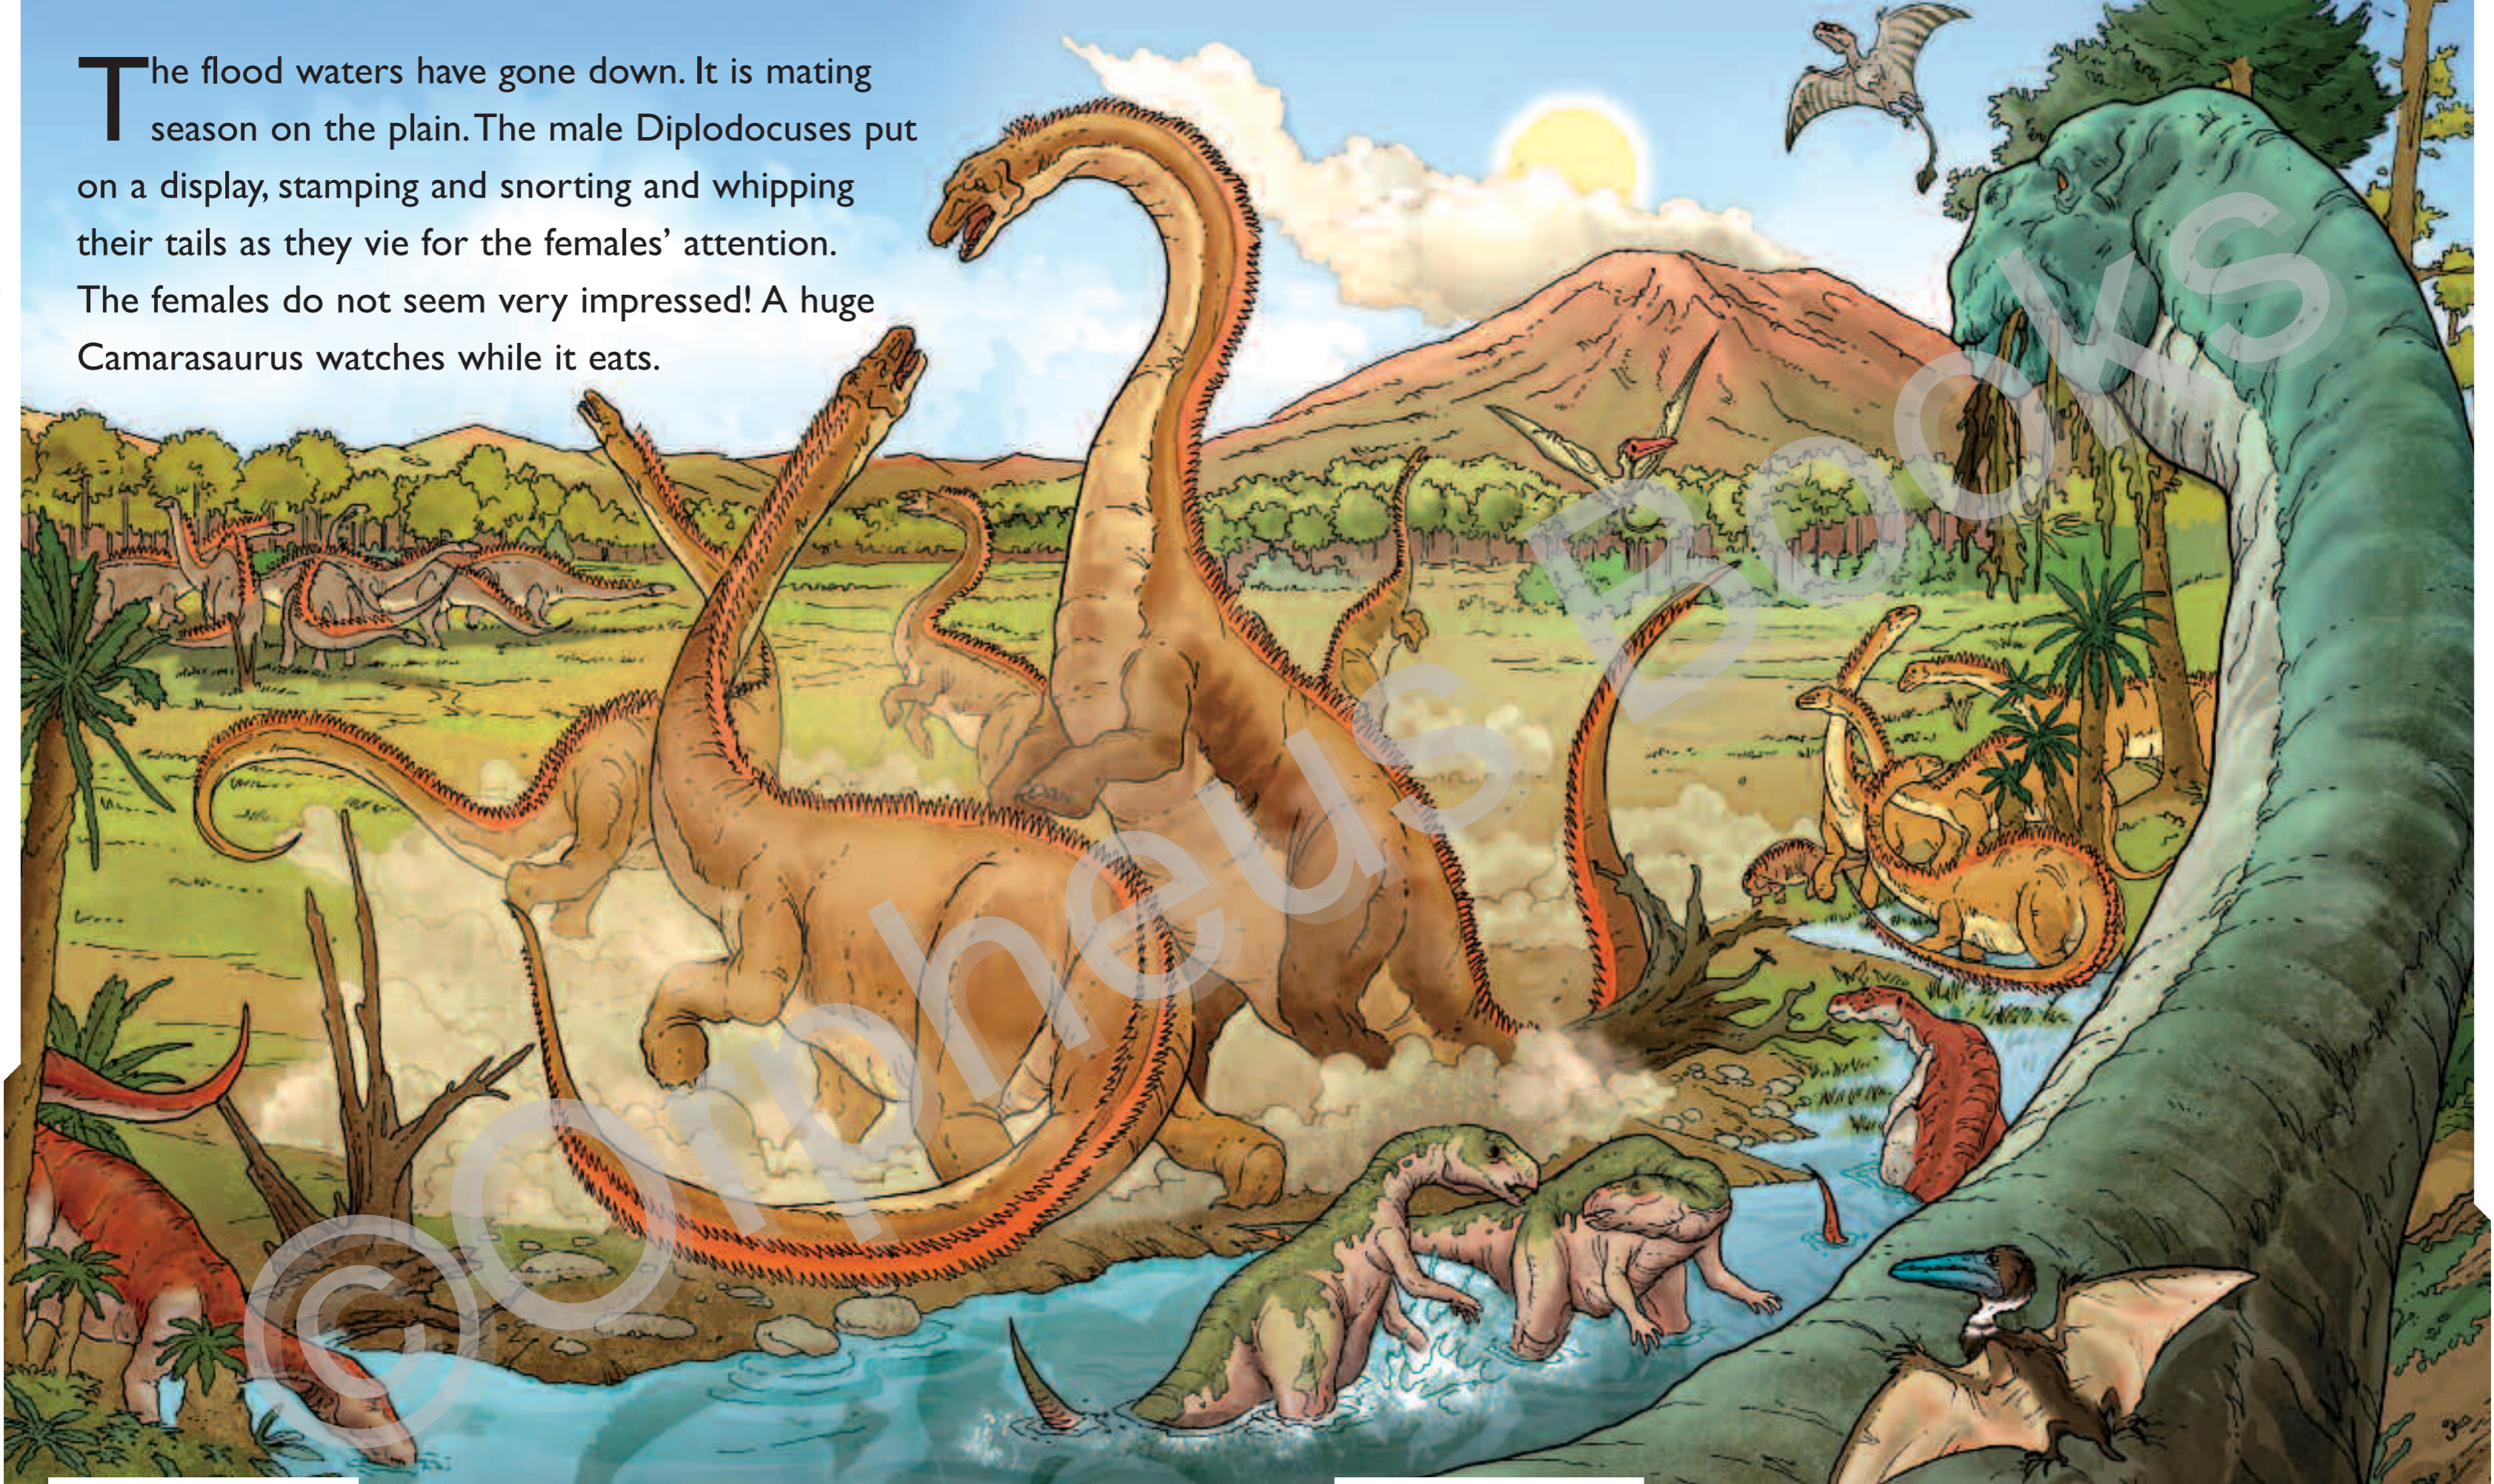

Dimorphodon?

Diplodocus?

The flood waters have gone down. It is mating season on the plain. The male Diplodocuses put on a display, stamping and snorting and whipping their tails as they vie for the females' attention. The females do not seem very impressed! A huge Camarasaurus watches while it eats.

December

Mating season