Disaster! A player has been injured. He is carried off on a stretcher. A player from the other team is to blame. The referee sends the culprit off. The fans are angry. Some shout at the referee. Others think that their team will now lose the match. Even the commentators start to argue about the sending-off. In the middle of the chaos, a man races across the pitch. He is wearing nothing but his underwear!

The match has finished in a draw. The players are now taking penalties to decide who will win the cup. The final penalty is taken. The ball hits the back of the net and the match is won. The supporters of the winning team start celebrating. One is so excited that he throws his drink over the boy behind him! Even the dogs are excited. But the supporters of the other team are very disappointed. One of the commentators is in tears.
