

Whose STRIPES are these?

When danger threatens, I hide inside
the tentacles of sea anemones.

My name sounds
like I would be good at telling
jokes!

Can you guess
who I am?

A clownfish!

The stinging tentacles of a sea anemone do not harm me. So if I hide inside them I will be safe from bigger fish that might want to eat me—just like that barracuda outside!